Explorers Will Depend on Radio And Amateurs

MacMillan Party Fully Equipped With Radio Apparatus for Polar Trip—Sending on 40-Metre Wave. Expect Amateurs to Pick Up Their Messages.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Aboard the Polar Ship Peary, June 18.—(By Radio)—The Peary was off Wiscasset, Maine, today and her commander, Donald B. MacMillan, was on shore, having proceeded overland from Boston, sailing point of the Peary.

After taking on more equipment, both the Peary and her companion ship, the Bowdoin will leave on Saturday for their first northern objective, Etah, Greenland.

In the final analysis the lives of the naval aviators who are to assist MacMillan in his hunt for the missing Amundsen polar expedition and to discover a new continent, will depend on radio and actually on the efficiency of the little 201 A tubes.

The intrepid explorer and his crew are banking on young America as their connecting link with civilization in establishing communication with them while in the frozen north. Amateurs may well throw out their chests, because this novel junket expects that boys and girls with home made radio sets will accomplish more than broadcasting stations built by the government and the big corporations.

Commander Eugene F. McDonald, in charge of radio for MacMillan, admitted today that this press dispatch would be picked up by boys and girls, members of the American Radio Relay League, who will "stand by" when the expedition invades the polar regions.

The MacMillan radio sending apparatus operates on a short wave, forty metres—and John Reinart, of South Manchester, Conn., short wave radio wizard for MacMillan, tried out his apparatus by sending press reports.

This dispatch was received by Joseph P. Peckham, at station 1-BD Brooklyn.

Because the Peary had not been expected until later, only a handful of Maine residents were on hand to greet the exploration ship as she swung alongside the Bowdoin at Wiscasset. As soon as word of the Peary's arrival filtered through the Sheepscot River town, however, there was a rush to the waterfront to take part in a tardy mass reception.

As an extra precaution to protect the MacMillan amphibious airplanes from harm on the trip, the naval contingent attached to the expedition called off watches over the planes during the trip from Boston and kept a sharp eye lookout.

Members of the scientists party aboard put in their spare time in putting the last touches on their apparatus.

Commander MacDonald revealed today that MacMillan is carrying twenty radio sets complete as to batteries, antennae and the like, to distribute among missionaries on the Labrador and Greenland coasts.

During early morning the party aboard the Peary raced to the decks to watch an exciting sea chase of a rum runner by coast guard vessels. The chase led into the blackness and the result was not learned.

DERBY MAY BE CANADA'S GOVERNOR-GENERAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ottawa, June 18.—Reports that Lord Byng will refuse a second term as governor-general of Canada today created discussion regarding his probable successor.

In well informed circles it was stated that the Earl of Derby is likely to be Canada's next governor-general, and that the sale of the Earl's estate in Leicestershire is in preparation to the appointment to Canada.

Lord Derby was an influential figure in Great Britain during the World War. Edward George Villiers Stanley, 17th Earl of Derby, was born in 1865. His greatest service during the war was as recruiting chief. Lord Derby was aide de camp to his father, the 16th Earl of Derby, when the latter, as Lord Stanley, was governor-general of Canada from 1888 to 1913.

ARRESTED AFTER HIS CAR HAD COLLIDED WITH AUTO

Harry R. Quinn of Newburgh was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Kersman after Quinn's auto had struck a car of Vernon Styles at Delaware avenue and North street. Quinn is charged with operating an auto without either an operator's or chauffeur's license. The hearing was adjourned to Friday morning in police court.

Red Men's Excursion Sunday

Warning Order of Red Men, will run their fourth annual excursion from this city to Palisade Park, N. J., on Sunday. The steamer Homer Ramsdell will leave her dock in Rondout creek at 4:45 a. m., and excursionists will have five hours in New York and at Palisade Park.

A Spry Horse

This morning a stray sorrel mare wandered into the city hall grounds and was caught by the police who are holding it for the owner.

Court Hands Out Light Sentences

Judge Fowler Accepts Defendants' Promises to be Better and Grants Further Extension of Time for One Man to Pay His Fine.

Four more cases were disposed of in county court Wednesday afternoon when Judge Joseph M. Fowler passed sentence on defendants.

Albert J. Partlan, charged with burglary, third degree, alleged to have taken place in this city this spring when he with others entered the grocery store of A. D. Rose on Franklin street and removed a cash register, changed his former plea of not guilty to guilty of the crime charged. The cash register taken was one used in the butcher shop and contained no money. It was taken downtown and later recovered by the police. Thomas F. Coughlin, appeared for Partlan and stated that Mr. Rose and District Attorney Traver were willing to give the young man a chance to make good and he therefore asked that if a sentence was imposed it be suspended during good behavior. Judge Fowler sentenced Partlan to the Reformatory, State Reformatory and suspended execution of sentence during good behavior. Partlan is to report to Probation Officer Robert Service and take instructions from him not later than Saturday.

Everett Pinchout, who pleaded guilty to larceny, was given a light sentence on his promise to make good and do certain things after his term expired. He was sent to Elmira State Reformatory, there to be held until discharged by law.

Mylo Thorne of Saugerties, who was indicted for driving a car while intoxicated, pleaded guilty to reckless driving. F. C. Merritt, appeared for him. He was fined $75 and his license to drive was suspended for 15 days. He paid the fine.

Abner Wescott, who took a horse from the town of Lloyd and after aiming himself set forth to conquer the world, was sent to the Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents. His mental condition was inquired into by physicians appointed by the court and on their recommendation he was sent to Napanoch for treatment.

Mayo DeLong, who pleaded guilty at the January term of county court to driving a car while intoxicated and who was given until the first day of the present term to pay his fine; has failed to come in with the money. An order was granted for a bench warrant and his arrest.

William Mercier, who was unable to pay his fine when imposed at a former term of court, was given an extension of time until July first to pay. His counsel asked for an extension of time.

Court went into recess until July first at 2 o'clock.

Fear Further Riots in China

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 18.—The Chinese situation has reached such a critical stage and Great Britain is so apprehensive for the future, the House of Commons will debate a course of action when it meets tonight. It was said in diplomatic circles today.

England fears an anti-foreign outbreak similar to that which brought on the siege of Peking in 1900. From Shanghai came reports to London that some factions of the Chinese on strike against foreigners were demanding that the government issue a declaration of war against Great Britain.

Coupled with this report were dispatches telling of the wounding of two Communists and the arrest of seven others at Hankow and the arrest of seven Communists at Tien Tsin. They were accused of trying to alienate the troops of General Feng.

GLOVE CAUSED CRASH

Motorman Looking for It Did Not See Train Ahead.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—Forty persons were recovering today from injuries and shock received in a rear end collision between two wooden elevated trains near the Jerome and Anderson avenue station of the Ninth Avenue line, not far from the Yankee Stadium in the Bronx last night.

A six car north bound local crashed into a five car train that had halted against a signal. The motorman told authorities after the accident he had stooped to pick up his glove as the train was rounding a curve and did not see the train ahead.

Charged With Reckless Driving

William Schaub of Kingston, charged with reckless driving in Saugerties on Sunday, June 14, was brought before Police Justice Gardner in Saugerties by Officer Lavelle on Tuesday. The hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, June 23. Schaub, it is claimed, ran into the overhead car of a Glisco man named Coe, at the corner of Bridge and South Partition streets Saugerties, and did considerable damage to the car.

Insane Veteran Kills "Buddy"

Post-War Arguments Followed by Three Weeks' Silence Between Them—Slayer, 92 Years Old—His Victim, 78.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Londonderry, N. H., June 18.—Battles of the Civil War were fought and re-fought by Charles S. Gay, 92, and his "buddy," Nelson B. Hackett, 78, at the boarding house of Mrs. Wilbur E. Barrett.

Two weeks ago the post-war arguments reached a high pitch and from then on neither spoke to the other. The Union cause for which both veterans shouldered a rifle sixty years ago resulted in tragedy.

Hackett was in the dining room reading by the aid of his "specs." Without uttering a word, Gay tottered into the room, and with shaking hand, pulled the muzzle of a revolver at Hackett's right ear and pulled the trigger.

As Hackett toppled to the floor, his aged assailant went to his own room, practiced his marksmanship on the wall four times and then shot himself through the right temple. Gay died instantly. Hackett hovered between life and death today at Derry Hospital.

Medical Referee Cogswell said that Gay was insane. Both were alone in the world and their only income was their pension money.

Ganna Walska Stars in Comedy

Reception in Paris so Successful She May Continue With Drama and Give Up Singing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 18.—Stage celebrities of Paris were outpoken in their praise today of Ganna Walska-McCormick, wife of Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, as a comedienne and actress in contrast to their previous sharp criticism of her as an opera singer.

Following her successful appearance last night as "The Duchess de Maudry," in "Le Habit Vert" (The Green Dress) before a colorful audience at a charity performance, she said she probably would devote her future artistic efforts to drama rather than singing.

Applause greeted her when she appeared on the stage before a brilliant audience of Parisians, among whom was the Duchess Duzes, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Cécile Sorel, the famous French actress.

Critics in the audience expressed their pleased surprise at Ganna Walska's stage presence, and several of them called attention of an entire absence of the stage fright which has marred her appearance as a singer. She was calm and spoke her lines with clear enunciation.

After the first act, Ganna Walska was found delighted and triumphant in her dressing room.

"This was my first attempt at comedy," she told International News Service. "I am happy and well satisfied with my reception, especially as I have never taken lessons in dramatic art. I have just sat and watched Cécile Sorel, studied her technique and tried to do likewise. I am sincere in my efforts and if my drama is more successful than my singing I probably will continue with drama and give up singing."

American Slayers Get Life Sentence

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Glens Falls, N. Y., June 18.—Charles and Francis Aiken, Whitehall youths who a week ago were convicted of manslaughter in Montreal, were this morning sentenced to life imprisonment. The boys who were 17 and 19 years of age, were accused of killing George Benson, Canadian farmer, a year ago and robbing him of $125. It was charged that they committed the robbery to secure funds with which to start bootlegging.

FRENCH ADMIT RUSSIAN GAINS NEAR BAHANE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 18.—Russian gains in the region of Bahane were admitted by the French foreign office today in a statement designed to set at rest reports from Spanish sources of important Riff successes in that hotly contested sector.

The foreign office first denied reports that Bahane had been abandoned by the French and occupied by the Riffs.

The foreign office admitted, however, that the Riffians had captured fifty native troops, who were holding an out post near Bahane.

Remembrance Boat Whoddy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Eastbourne, England, June 18.—John Hennessy, of Indianapolis today defeated J. D. P. Whoddy of England in the International Tennis matches making the match between the United States and Great Britain two all.

The scores were 7-5; 6-2; 4-6; 7-4. Hennessy's victory was due to his terrific backhand driving.

Death Reveals Seer's Identity

Swindled Incredulous Persons in Boston by Practicing Crystal Gazing—Expected Pardon on Day He Died.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., June 18.—"Sir Thomas Moxette," noted swindler, crystal gazer and self-styled "ambassador of cupid" today in death revealed as Harry H. White, son of respected parents in Toledo, Ohio.

The body of the man, who transmuted his "powers" as a seer into gold by advising his followers in dubious financial transactions, lies in the morgue, where it will remain until September, when it will be taken to Toledo for burial.

"Sir Thomas" died in the Bridge-water State Hospital infirmary, where he was removed from State prison when his health failed. "Sir Thomas" was serving a term of from three to five years after being convicted of the larceny of $11,155 from Mrs. Justine Gordon, one of the scores who blindly followed the advice he gave on love and business affairs. He was 53 years old and expected a pardon the day he died.

Describing himself as "the master mind," the crystal gazer established lavishly furnished Oriental parlors in Cambridge. Among other things he promised Mrs. Gordon "100 cents on the dollar." He was arrested in San Francisco.

Society Girl Loses Life at Sea

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—The parents of Elizabeth Mary Cromwell, 21 year old society girl and sculptress, were awaiting further details today of their daughter's drowning at sea from the liner Veendam, bound for Rotterdam.

"Elizabeth was too timid to think of jumping overboard," said Lincoln C. Cromwell, her father, today at his home at 711 Park avenue. "We believe she was a victim of vertigo as she was always easily disturbed by height and motion."

"Elizabeth was very happy when she left here Saturday. Our family doctor recently inoculated her for typhoid and said she was in perfect health. He is certain she was the victim of sudden vertigo."

A cablegram from Mrs. Stocks Miller of Chicago, cousin of Miss Cromwell who sailed with her, reported her companion lost overboard last Tuesday but gave no further details.

Six years ago, Misses Gladys and Dorothea Cromwell, second cousins of Elizabeth Cromwell, jumped to their death from the liner Lusitania, leaving a note reading: "We intend to end it all." Their action was attributed to a nervous breakdown incurred from war service with the Red Cross.

Thomas Hoffman Chewwater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Chewwater of Washington avenue, graduated at Yale College, Wednesday receiving the degree of A. B. Mrs. Chewwater attended the graduating exercises at New Haven, Conn.

Railroad Wreck Death List 44

Investigation of Lackawanna Wreck—Tuesday Morning Results in Official Pronouncement That It Was Unavoidable.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Hackettstown, N. J., June 18.—The death list in the Lackawanna railroad wreck near here Tuesday amounted to 44 today with the death of Clemens Schmidt, 47, of 920 North Drake avenue, Chicago.

Twenty-four still are in hospitals here and in nearby towns. The condition of several is critical and it is expected the death toll will be further increased.

The bodies of the Chicago victims were to be sent west on a special train today.

Meanwhile, the work of investigating the disaster was continued. James Maybury, Jr., chief of the railroad division of the New Jersey State Board of Public Utility Commissioners, was prepared to submit the report of his investigation to three other members of the commission at Trenton. He said he was satisfied that sand and silt, washed over the tracks by the heavy rain, was the primary cause of the wreck.

This was in accord with the statement of E. M. Rino, general manager of the Lackawanna, who summed up his findings with the statement: "An act of God."

Gun Play Follows Big Beer Haul

Prohibition Agents Threaten to Attack Dry Agents Near Syracuse Jail—Police Reserves Quell Disturbance.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., June 18.—Gun play and a near riot at the courthouse jail, staged by four alleged rum runners, climaxed the sensational capture today of the largest haul of beer made in Syracuse this summer.

A detail of police reserves was rushed to quell the disturbance when the four prisoners threatened to attack Prohibition Agent Harold L. Austin and Deputy Sheriff Dear, who made the seizures and arrests.

Revolvers were brought into action by the officers before the unruly four were subdued.

When police responded to a hurry call for help from the courthouse jail, they found Austin and Dear having a difficult time with their sullen prisoners.

One thousand bottles of beer, three trucks on which it had been loaded, and fifty barrels of beer in a New York Central freight car, from which the beverages were being unloaded at a Hiawatha street siding, are in the hands of prohibition officers today as the result of the daring coup of Agent Austin and Deputy Sheriff Dear.

The prisoners are booked as follows: Frank Chambers, 338 Coolidge avenue; Joseph Murphy, 699 North Clinton street; David Wallace, 1006 Willis avenue and Thomas Pendergast, 707 North Clinton street, all of this city.

Ulster Men at Plattsburg Camp

Expect Death of La Follette

Wisconsin Senator Slowly Sinking—Heart Disease Complicates Bronchial Asthma—Was 70 Years Old Last Sunday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 18.—Senator Robert Marion La Follette, of Wisconsin, independent Republican leader, who has just attained the age of seventy years, was dying today at his Wyoming avenue home here, according to the belief of members of his family watching at the bedside.

Heart trouble which developed suddenly this morning interfered seriously with the senator's breathing, already labored by complications of asthma and a recurring attack of influenza.

Dr. C. C. Marbury, who is in constant attendance at the La Follette home, announced at 10:35 o'clock this morning that the senator's condition "is now grave."

A bulletin at 11 o'clock said: "Senator La Follette is slowly sinking. Indications are that his circulation is gradually failing."

La Follette's condition became so aggravated after the issuance of the bulletin at 10:35 o'clock that a second physician, Dr. B. M. Randolph, a heart specialist, was called to the bedside.

Senator La Follette's family is in close attendance at his bedside, indicating the seriousness of his illness. Philip La Follette, his young son, is here from Madison, Wisconsin, where he is district attorney of Dane county, the office to which the senator himself was first elected three decades ago.

Mrs. La Follette and Robert M. La Follette, Jr., have been with the senator since he was confined to his bed about three weeks ago.

La Follette, who was 70 last Sunday, has been in failing health since his independent presidential campaign last fall. He was unable to attend sessions of the Senate last winter and went to Florida to recuperate. He disregarded his physicians' advice and returned to Washington early in March to vote against the confirmation of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general of the United States. That was his last official act, and he has been confined to his home almost continuously since.

La Follette's two daughters, Mrs. George Middleton of New York and Mrs. Ralph Sucker of Washington, were notified of the senator's critical illness and were at the bedside this morning.

Canada to Have Secret Service

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ottawa, Can., June 18.—Canadian cooperation with American authorities to prevent smuggling across the boundary, chiefly liquor, took concrete form today when parliament voted an expenditure of $350,000 to organize and maintain a Canadian secret service on the northern side of the line.

Contraband goods to the extent of $50,000,000 a year have been flowing across the border, according to official estimates.

FRENCH REPLY TO GERMANY TO BE PUBLISHED TODAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 18.—France's reply to Germany's peace pact proposals is expected to be published in London at six o'clock this evening.

Drafts of the reply were sent to London, Brussels, Rome and Berlin, for study by the signatory powers.

PRICES ADVANCED IN COTTON MARKET

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, June 18.—Advances of 15 to 25 points marked the opening of the local cotton exchange today. July sold at 24 1/4 up 15; October, 23 1/2 up 15; December, 23 1/2 up 20; March 23 1/2 up 20.

Sentence Was Suspended

The Winston brothers, Herman and Louis, and Irving Alton, three taxi drivers of this city, were arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Schlichter charged with violating passengers from the bus line steamer while standing more than five feet from their seats which were parked on Delaware avenue, outside Kingston Point Park. Sentence was suspended by the court on all three.

Vice-Admiral Elected Commander

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Eastbourne, England, June 18.—Sir Richard Hall, vice-admiral in charge of naval intelligence during the war, was elected today to the House of Commons with a vote of 12,747. Harcourt Johnstone, Liberal, received 2,346 votes, and Lieutenant Colonel William, Labour, 2,654.

Storm Warning Issued

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—The weather bureau issued a warning to small craft today advising of disturbances along the Atlantic coast from Sandy Hook, N. J., to Eastport, Maine. There will be fresh to strong southerly winds, accompanied by squalls.

Fire Companies In Big Parade At Newburgh

The 36th Annual H. V. F. A. Convention Closes in Newburgh With Annual Parade—Officers Elected Wednesday—Port Jervis Selected for 1926 Convention.

The 36th annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association was brought to a close today with the big parade in Newburgh when over eighty fire companies participated. Wednesday afternoon the association elected its officers and selected Port Jervis as the convention city for 1926.

Kingston was represented in the big parade by Excelsior Hose Company and Rapid Hose Company. The boys of Excelsior Hose met at the fire house on Hurley avenue and one hundred strong, headed by the Schenectady City Band, marched to the Central Fire Station where auto buses met them and conveyed them to Newburgh. As they marched down Broadway the firemen attracted considerable favorable attention with their new uniforms of red shirts and blue pants.

Rapid Hose Company in their new uniforms of white shirts and blue pants met at the engine house on Hone street, and headed by the Citizens' Band, marched up Broadway to the West Shore station where they entrained for Newburgh. The Rapid boys were headed by Mayor Morris Block, members of the board of fire commissioners and other city officials.

McKenzie President.
Judge Henry E. McKenzie of Port Jervis, as predicted in The Freeman on Wednesday, was elected president of the association that afternoon. The other officers elected were: First vice-president, Pierre DePew, of Nyack; second vice-president, George T. Kelly, of Yonkers; secretary, Christian W. Noll, chief of the Poughkeepsie fire department, re-elected; and treasurer, Andrew J. Murphy, of Kingston, re-elected.

Former Sheriff William H. Kolts defeated City Assessor William B. Martin for a place on the board of directors by 22 votes. Mr. Kolts will hold office for five years.

L. I. Dunne of Kingston was elected Ulster county vice-president of the association to serve for three years.

Wind Storm Wrecked Tent

Tuesday afternoon a typhoon in miniature struck the Recreation Park in Newburgh and as a result the big tent which was intended to cover the firemen during the dinner scheduled to follow the parade, was in large part reduced to ribbons. Ben Caroto, 12 years old, who was attempting to assist in saving the tent, was carried aloft a distance of 25 feet and then thrown to the ground, alighting on a table in course of construction. He was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital where it was found he was not seriously hurt and later he returned to his home.

The tent was a monstrous affair, as big as those used by the largest circuses as may be inferred from the fact that it was to offer protection for the 5,500 firemen participating in the parade. Word was sent to the owners of the tent in New York and they sent a force of men to Newburgh to make repairs and have the tent in readiness for the big dinner.

BOB'S STATEMENT SATISFIES CHINA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Peking, June 18.—Senator William E. Borah's statement in Washington that there is nothing in the Chinese situation necessitating any change in America's traditional friendliness for China caused general satisfaction and rejoicing in the capital today.

"The senator's statement may be regarded as a reiteration of the American principle of good will, fair play and justice in international relations," said C. T. Wang, former premier, who was a delegate to the arms conference.

"The republic is glad to know of the expression of such good will."

TOMMY STARTS

Tommy was a little boy who longed to adventure. He had heard his grandfather talk of a wonderful adventure to be had at the top of a mountain where lived a strange old man.

They had never gone all the way to see the old man for there had been a lovely half-way place where they had always stopped and had a picnic and then decided to put off the long climb until another time.

Tommy knew, for he had thought it all out, that he would only be able to get just so far at a time. In fact, they had told him so. They had told him that was the reason they had not gone further.

So he decided he would not expect a great deal to happen at once, nor to accomplish a lot in a short climb. He was willing that the progress should be slow. He knew all along the way he would enjoy himself.

It was holiday time and Tommy made up his mind that he would find the pond and the cave and he hoped he would see the old man.

Tommy's grandfather was delightedly excited over the idea. "I'll lend you the stick I used to take with me when I started on that trip—only I hope you will go all the way. Then, when you come back, you can tell me all about it." His grandfather's eyes shone at the very thought.

So bright and early one morning Tommy started off. No one went with him, for the few boys of his own age didn't like the idea of such a long, long tramp just for a sight of a pretty pond and a possible old man and a possible treasure.

"There's enough to do down by the river here not to go all that way to look for anything," they told him. "Besides that story of the treasure sounds foolish. There aren't any treasures any more."

But it all sounded so thrilling to Tommy. It was like living years and years ago, somehow, and looking for

He Raised His Stick.

Things that were beautiful, and becoming friends with strange, strange creatures, and finding a treasure reward at the end. Oh, what would it matter if it was a great effort! What an adventure!

He had a blanket and a knapsack of food and his grandfather's stick. "Don't be gone too long," his grandfather had said, for his grandfather would miss him as would the other members of his family. But they all envied Tommy his great adventure. They had all dreamed of adventures themselves.

Up and up the hills he climbed, through woods and woods. After a long time when he was feeling quite weary he came to a small lake. He thought it was a very pretty lake and he wondered if it would be fun to stop here and explore. Probably this would be as well as the other. It was a long climb here and he was quite, quite tired. But then he remembered that this was where the others had stopped.

There was a higher hill beyond this, some woods, and then up to the top of another hill—the mountain top it was called. That was where the beautiful pond was to be found, so they had said. But now that he was feeling so tired he wondered if the pond really was there. No one had seen it. No one was really sure. Maybe the old man wasn't quite right in his mind. Maybe there was nothing there at all—no adventures to be had, no cave, no treasure, no wonderful, wonderful beauty.

He sat and thought about it, but then decided he would go on and see, though he was just a little discouraged when no one was really sure.

He had just begun to climb the next hill when he heard a hissing and a swishing in the grass.

Well, he was glad he had his stick with him. There must be no delay. Without a doubt this sound meant a snake.

And no sooner had he thought this than the snake was wriggling along ahead of him. He raised his stick and kept it raised. Certainly the snake was showing no sign of hurting him. In fact he was rather a pretty snake and he had almost a hypnotic look. How dreadful Tommy thought to himself, not to have legs and to have to move this way. He put down his stick and the snake turned around.

"Dear me, but that's a relief," the snake said to his young, listening victim. Yet Tommy could understand him perfectly.

"What's a relief?" Tommy asked.

"To think that you're a friend," the snake replied.

Puritan Punishments

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

TO ENFORCE THE STRICT LAWS, WHICH THE PURITAN ELDERS THOUGHT NECESSARY FOR THE WELFARE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS COLONY, A NUMBER OF UNIQUE PUNISHMENTS FOR ALL UNGODLY VIOLATORS WERE DEvised.

ALL OF THESE PUNISHMENTS WERE INFLICTED IN PUBLIC SO THAT OTHERS MIGHT TAKE WARNING. FOR EXAMPLE, IF A WOMAN WERE ACCUSED OF HAVING A SHARP TONGUE, SHE WAS GAGGED AND BOUND AND FORCED TO STAND BEFORE HER DOOR FOR AS LONG A TIME AS THE SENTENCE STATED.

ANOTHER PUNISHMENT, FOR SWEARING OR BREAKING THE SABBATH, WAS TO LOCK THE ACCUSED MAN IN THE PILLORY FOR A TERM. THE DISCOMFORT WAS TERRIFIC AND TO MAKE IT EVEN WORSE THE SMALL BOYS TOOK PLEASURE IN THROWING MUD AND VEGETABLES AT THE PRISONER'S HEAD.

FOR MORE SERIOUS OFFENSES, SUCH AS TALKING AGAINST THE PURITAN CHURCH, THE OFFENDER WAS SENTENCED TO THE DUCKING STOOL. BANISHMENT WAS ANOTHER PENALTY THAT WAS FREQUENTLY IMPOSED.

Why is it that we so seldom think of house management as a business? Until we do so, we do not judge ourselves and it according to ordinary business standards. It is doubtful if we attain a great degree of efficiency.—Hazel Kewley.

SEASONABLE DISHES

Ice cream is so much enjoyed that it is a satisfaction to know it is good for us. When made at home and eaten at meal-time it is the best of desserts.

Maple Parfait.—Heat one cupful of maple sirup to just below the boiling point. Beat four egg yolks slightly, continue beating and add the hot sirup slowly. Cook over hot water until the mixture thickens. Strain and cool, add one pint of heavy cream whipped with one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt. Place in a chilled mold, cover with waxed paper and pack in ice and salt, two parts of ice to one of salt. Allow to stand three to four hours.

Coffee Mousse.—Soften a teaspoonful of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of water and dissolve in one-half cupful of clear, black coffee. Allow it to cool and, when beginning to thicken, fold in two cupfuls of whipped cream which has been sweetened with three-fourths of a cupful of sugar; add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and mold and pack as for the parfait.

French Pecan Ice Cream.—Put one-third of a cupful of sugar in a saucepan to caramelize; when amber-colored add three-fourths of a cupful of hot water and allow to stand until dissolved. Scald two cupfuls of milk, add slowly to the yolks of eight eggs, cook slowly until thick, adding the caramel sirup, one cupful of sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Cool and add two and two-thirds cupfuls of this cream and one cupful of crushed pecans. Put the nuts into the oven until crisp, break into small pieces and freeze the whole mixture as usual.

Casseroles of Onions.—Brown two onions cut into two-inch pieces in three tablespoonfuls of fat. Sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper; add one small onion chopped, one stalk of celery, one carrot chopped, three cloves, a tiny bit of bayleaf, one cupful of tomato and one cupful of hot water, salt and pepper to season. Cook covered very slowly for about three and one-half hours.

Recognized Jokes

The Scots are making an effort to stop the hoary old joke that they never spend any money. Scientists who have gone into the antiquity of jokes and made a study of the subject say that there are only about six original examples and that all humor is based on them. Old jokes come back into style or else appear wearing new battlements. Humorous into new fields sometimes are dangerous and unpredictable. The plumber joke may not have been one of the early started, but it has been a favorite not only with the almanacs, but with the comic strips and the higher class weekly funny magazines. If the plumber joke has to go, the joke writers merely will understand that they have one less subject upon which to work.

THE WEIGHT OF THE EARTH.

We read that Dr. Paul R. Heyl, of the Bureau of Standards in Washington, has long been working in a cell thirty-five feet underground, there employing mysterious instruments and putting through wondrous experiments with a view to arrive at the exact weight of our planet. It was long since estimated that the earth weighs about six quintillion tons, but like all such stupendous estimates, this one is "rough," or not quite free from the element of speculation or guesswork. Dr. Heyl seeks to be exact as well as sure, and much is said to depend on the success of his efforts.

Both the undertaking itself and the eagerness to obtain results are quite beyond the grasp of the average lay mind. Even if we could ascertain the exact weight of the earth, what will it profit us? A part of the answer, according to report, is that if the exact weight of the earth can be determined it will then be possible to compute the weight of the universe. But why should we want to know the weight of the universe, even if the attainment of such knowledge be possible? The answer to this, in turn, is that the weight of the universe is needed in order to be able to know the exact weight of a pound of anything that we handle, for nobody can know this precisely until Einstein's law of relativity has been fully tested and science can say exactly what is the gravitational pull between all the matter in existence. And for the great masses of us this is more staggering still, for it has been said that somewhat less than a dozen persons profess to understand the Einstein theory.

OLD DEMAND IN NEW FORM.

As might be expected, the National Association of Manufacturers still holds to its old opinion that immigration should be adjusted to meet the country's demand for labor. In place of the present quota system the committee of the association would have a test made of "the superior advantage of limitations predicated upon progressively ascertained economic facts and administration authorized within appropriate limitation to expand and contract in accord with accurately ascertained economic requirements." More plainly stated, the Association's idea appears to be that the law should be revised so that it may be possible to admit laborers from Europe in accordance with the needs of industry. In other words, open wide the gates in boom times and partially close them when business is depressed.

This looks very much like a new edition of the old argument in favor of plenty of cheap foreign labor for our industries—the argument that was long powerful at Washington and kept the gates wide open for so many years. It is an argument perfectly satisfactory to our captains of industry, but one which, since the war, has failed to convince either students of the subject or the American public at large. Such a wide opening and partial closing according to industry's varying needs would be more difficult in practice and perhaps more unpopular abroad than the present quota system, and at the same time flood the country with undesirable, at least in boom periods, as recklessly as under the old system which public pressure brought to an end.

Governor "Ma" Ferguson presides over a population of more than five millions and a territory greater than France or Germany. Great is Texas in other particulars as well. After taking first place in the Union in railway mileage and in the value of farm products, after crowding Ohio for fourth place in population, Texas has now become the leading State in export trade, shipping more merchandise abroad—$721,595,000 worth in 1924—than any other American commonwealth.

In 1918, a year when the United States was at war, the total payments of the states were $365,484,000 a per capita of $4.47. In 1922 the total payments of the states reached $1,250,220,000, a per capita of $11.22. The total in 1924 was $1,319,233,000, or a per capita of $11.96. It will be interesting to note the total of 1925 and what has been the effect of Coolidge economy in reducing it.

It seems that the original Wright airplane was offered a London museum only provisionally and will remain in this country if only the Smithsonian Institution will "truthfully label" Prof. Langley's flying machine and give full credit to the Wright brothers for producing the first airplane capable of carrying a man.

The French Senate recently spent a delectable hour or so discussing the merits of cheese. Cheese improves with age, but not so an international debt, which would be a good subject to place before the French Senate and keep there until some effective disposition is made of the case.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
 GETTING RESULTS.

A very stout woman consulted her physician one day regarding her excessive weight. He advised certain restrictions in diet, some daily exercise, and less sleep or fewer "resting" periods.

She returned in a couple of months with her weight practically the same. She was greatly disappointed.

Close questioning on the part of the physician failed to shake her story, that she had carried out his instructions "pretty well indeed."

The physician then stated that he would have to make a thorough examination, and discover just what effect this excessive weight was having on her system.

He showed her that her blood pressure was too high, that the fatty tissue was crowding her heart, that in two or three years it might possibly affect the kidneys, and mean invalidism if not death.

He pointed out that the ensuing year would tell the story, and unfortunately he had nothing else to suggest, than he had suggested two months previously.

The lady went home and did a lot of thinking and a lot of worrying also. Her health, her life was at stake. Instead of being the placid easy-going restful individual, she became fretful, talkative, and burdened home folks, friends, and neighbors, with the details of this awful fate that awaited her. Her sleep became very much broken, because she couldn't rest, owing to her thoughts always reverting to the doctor's words. She began to lose her appetite for her meals also, and often omitted a meal entirely. Further she found herself thinking about it all so much, that she began to occupy her mind with details of the home. She cleared out clothes closets, and as spring was at hand, she got right into the midst of house-cleaning as a relief of her mind. All this time she still worried about herself.

In two months time she found herself where weighing scales were available, and her weight showed a reduction of twenty pounds.

Rushing to her doctor, he explained to her that there was a slight improvement in her general condition, but the matter was still serious.

Another three months of work and worry, reduced her another fifteen pounds. Doing without some food, and taking less rest, she was simply carrying out his prescription given her on her first visit.

Van Slyke Beat The Universal

Wednesday evening at the Athletic field a small crowd witnessed the Industrial Baseball League session between the Van Slyke & Horton Cigar and the Universal Road Machinery Company. The final tally was 19 to 13 in favor of the cigar makers.

The Van Slyke team got an early start scoring seven runs in the opening frame. They kept increasing the number of runs until the sixth inning. The cigar makers getting a big lead started to get a trifle careless in their plays which came near being the cause of a defeat in the final innings. The Van Slyke team had three different men in charge of the mound in the course of the game.

The Universal team was rather slow in starting and were unable to overtake the big lead of their opponents in the final innings. In an effort to down the cigar makers and stop their good work with the stick the road builders put three men to the task of trying to outwrestle the Van Slyke team, but all efforts were futile as things commenced to break in their favor too late in the game to do any real damage to the cigar makers' lead. Poor field work played a large part in the defeat for the Universal team, twelve errors being chalked up against them.

Piolek, who held down more positions than any other player, came across with a home run for the cigar makers. This made the second circuit clout of the season.

Score by innings:

Game Friday Night.

Friday evening a good game is expected when the West Shore Railroad team meets the Freeman Publishing Company. The Freeman team is confident of creeping out of last place and the railroaders are sure of adding another feather to their hats.

Monday evening the postponed game between the Schilling Furniture Company and the Universal Road Machinery Company will be played off.

WALKER WILL SING TO MEET DAVE SHADE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 15.—In order to placate the New York State Athletic Commission, Mickey Walker is expected to sign a contract today calling for him to defend his welterweight title against Dave Shade. The bout probably will take place on July 17 at the Yankee Stadium under the auspices of Tom F. Hard.

Walker's acceptance of Shade's challenge was forced by the local board which ordered him to sign for the bout under pain of being barred from meeting Harry Greb for the latter's middleweight title at the Polo Grounds July 2.

Tennis-Moran Beat.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 15.—Options was divided today as to the probable winner of the return bout between Sid Terris, of New York, and Paul Morris, of New Orleans, at Dexter Park Stadium, Brooklyn, tonight. Terris gained the decision over Moran on the occasion of their first meeting.

Twenty off on all Clothing and Furnishings until July 4th.

Tilden's Title In Danger

According to Vincent Richards, Who States That Champion Is Fast Slipping—Must Beat Five Good Men to Win Again.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 15.—"I'll beat Tilden as many times this season as he beats me. And one of those times might just as readily come in the National singles as in some obscure invitation tournament."

Vincent Richards declared himself in this manner today in predicting that the 1925 season in lawn tennis will find the almost perennial dominance of William T. Tilden on the wane. He doesn't think Tilden will be champion at the end of the current season.

The writer asked him how he contrived to get that way.

The reply was that he considered Tilden had just edged a step beyond the peak of ability that he knew as champion during the last five years. In brief that Tilden has slipped.

"It shows in his lack of consistency," Richards said.

"He is unbeatable one day and mediocre the next. The Tilden who beat everybody in other seasons was always good. If he has one of those bad days at any time during the National Championships, he won't even reach the final round."

Richards at this point disclaimed any attempt to act as his own cheer leader.

"I'm not speaking for myself alone," he declared. "I'm merely generalizing. Billy Johnston, Dick Williams or some of the newer stars may furnish the man to beat Tilden. Then again, no one may beat him. I merely state that his title is in greater danger now than at any time since he first gained it in 1920."

"Tilden must beat five good men in a row to win the championship again. In his present form, he doesn't seem capable of maintaining his speed for five successive days."

Asked if he would count on Tilden having a bad day in the event the champion did work his way into the finals, Richards hastened forward with an emphatic negative.

"Tilden is the greatest 'money' player the game ever knew," he said. "If he gets as far as the finals, the chances are very good that he will rise to the emergency."

Tagging Major League Bases

The Tigers romped like happy children over the corps delict of the Yankees, 19 to 1, and a fine time was had by all. In the sixth, 14 Tigers batted and eleven scored before a man was retired, thirteen scoring in all. Dause must have been playing an election bet; he held the Yanks to four hits.

Roush's single in the first inning of Dentley sent the Giants to their sixth straight defeat and the Reds to their eleventh victory in the last 12 games. Score 1 to 0. Luque was very niggardly. The Giants' lead was cut thereby to 1½ games.

Again running amuck against rival pitching the Pirates smote Grimes on his salivary gland and gained 8 to 3 decision over the Dodgers.

Harris pitched the Indians slyly and stopped out of character with three hits, the Athletics beating the Indians, 10 to 3. Smith was socked for 16 hits in the last six innings.

The two Sox divided a double header, Chicago winning the first, 5 to 3, on Faber's pitching and Boston the second, 7 to 6, on some enthusiastic hitting in the last two innings.

Blanke not only pitched laudable ball, but smote a double in the ninth that gave the Cubs a 5 to 4 verdict over the Phillies.

Zachary had slightly the better of a pitching altercation with Bush and the Senators made it three straight over the Browns, 2 to 1.

Middies Remain Mystery Crew

Races Monday at Poughkeepsie

Promises to be Greatest in Years

Semantic Shifts Toward Annapolis Camp.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 15.—

Last minute money on the Navy eight to win the Intercollegiate

Varsity race on Monday was held in abeyance today while the local colony of amateur gunshoemen attempted to get a more definite line on the "middles" ability. Greatly esteemed though they are, the middies remained the mystery crew of the river and the only hope of enlightenment seemed to rest in the possibility that young Dick Glendon would send them out for a time trial this afternoon.

Glendon fooled the clockers yesterday by ordering his crew to cease firing after going a mile and a half at top speed. They got away to a racine 40 and were just titling down to a strong 33 when Glendon called it an afternoon. The middies looked good but some of the old timers were slightly dubious afterward.

They intimated they had seen better Navy crews at this stage of the proceedings.

However, general sentiment seemed to have shifted generally to the Annapolis camp after favoring

Washington for more than a week.

It is no secret that the Huskies have failed to impress even themselves in recent workouts.

The rival coaches, however, were agreed today that Washington probably would come round to its best on race day and have conducted themselves accordingly. They look for the Huskies to be rowing "one-two" at the finish; in other words, that the eight which beats Washington

Ford Makes Half Million Tractors

First Experimented With Tractors, But Decided Public Was More Ready for Motor Vehicle for Travel—First Tractor Ran 10 Feet.

By Telegraph to The Freeman
Detroit, Mich., June 18.—The Ford Motor Company reached the half million mark in the production of Fordson tractors late Thursday afternoon, May 21, when Fordson No. 500,000 came off the assembly line at the River Rouge plant. The half-millionth tractor was completed at 4:23 o'clock, just a few minutes before the close of the day's work. It is planned to exhibit it at a number of state fairs during the coming summer and fall.

Manufacture of Fordson tractors today presents a striking contrast between the methods employed eight years ago when production began at the old plant at Dearborn. At the start only three or four Fordsons were produced each day and it took weeks to machine some parts. Today at the River Rouge plant, where all tractors are now manufactured and assembled, output is on a schedule calling for 400 Fordsons a day and the production cycle shows that 31 hours and 8 minutes after iron ore has arrived at the River Rouge docks it is converted into Fordson motor blocks and the blocks assembled into completed tractors.

Since its introduction eight years ago the Fordson Tractor has come into world-wide use and has brought a new efficiency into agriculture and the business of farming in nearly every country on the globe. It is estimated that a large majority of all tractors in use today are Fordsons and the Fordson is said to be the only tractor ever placed on the market without a subsequent change in basic design.

It is also a singular fact that long before he dreamed of manufacturing motor cars, Henry Ford was experimenting with engines in an effort to find some means of relieving farm drudgery. Born on a farm, his first glimpse of life was in the daily round of arduous farm duties and in his early boyhood he developed a strong feeling against prevailing agricultural methods.

His first experiments were with steam engines through which he hoped to find the power necessary to relieve the farmer of some of his burdens. This was back in his boyhood when steam was virtually the only power of the time.

His first tractor, built when he was 20 years old and operated by steam, ran only forty feet and then stopped. But he was satisfied for it had actually run. This was a dozen years before any tractor had reached the market. However, other experiments with steam engines convinced Ford that steam was not practicable and in 1885 his interest turned to gas engines and seven years later he had built his first motor car.

It was during these years that he decided that the world was more ready to accept a motor vehicle for travel than for agricultural work and he set about developing the automobile as a necessary preliminary in the evolution of the farm tractor.

Not once through all the years that he was building up his great motor car business did Ford forget the tractor or the drudgery of the farm. On October 1, 1915, Ford sent for several of his officials and announced that he was ready to produce a tractor and plans were at once started for the building of a plant at Dearborn. Experiments were carried on with many models of tractors and they were given all sorts of tests both on Ford's own farm and at demonstrations held throughout the country. Production began in 1917 when, after many tests and changes, the present Fordson design was perfected.

The Fordson almost immediately became a factor in the war, for England, lacking enough horses to plow ground necessary for food, turned to mechanical power and the first 5,000 Fordsons manufactured were purchased by the ministry of munitions for farm work in the United Kingdom. Because of this it was not until 1918 that the Fordson tractors began to reach the American farmers and then to go out to farmers in other parts of the world.

Economies effected on the farms by use of the Fordson have in late years attracted other users of power. The result has been that the Fordson has invaded open fields after another until at the present time more than twenty per cent of those sold are for use in industrial lines where power is a factor.

WORKERS PAID FOR DANGER THEY FACE

High Wages Earned in Hazardous Occupations.

According to announcement recently made in London, men who do roof work in that city will, in future, receive an extra payment of from one penny to three-pence (from two to six cents) an hour, according to the height from the street at which they work.

This payment, which has long been usual in the north of England, applies to work done where no scaffolding is provided, and to men working upon any outside roof with guttering less than a foot wide.

The equivalent of height money is paid in the United States to the men who work at bridge-building. The risks which the bridge builder takes can be gathered from the fact that the Quebec bridge cost 97 lives and the Blackwall's island bridge 60.

You see the bridge builder walking quietly along a six-inch girder, hundreds of feet in the air, or, balanced on a steel beam, catching in a pall a white-hot rivet flung from a flaming forge 50 feet above him.

Divers are paid according to the depth at which they work—usually by special bonuses.

Lambert, one of the most famous men in the profession, once received a bonus of $22,500 for recovering $35,000 from a vessel deeply sunk and in a difficult position.

The average professional diver greatly prefers sea to land work. By land work is meant such a task as entering a flooded mine or tunnel, going to the bottom of a deep well, or doing such work as the underpinning of Winchester cathedral. The cathedral foundations are in peat, and when the peat was dug out water flooded in.

Divers were engaged to put in new cement foundations. They were six years at their work, and earned a very high rate of pay.

A mountain guide's fees are proportioned not so much to the height of the mountain to be climbed as to its difficulty. Some years ago a Philadelphia lady—Miss Maria Stoll—made a night ascent of the Winkelmur, in the southern Tyrol. The mountain is only just over nine thousand feet in height, yet the climb is considered one of the most difficult in Europe. It is said that the guide received a fee of $5,000 for the ascent.

English Fear Dirty Fruit
Dirty and even diseased Asiatics, working in filthy sheds in squalid lanes are handling today the fruit we shall be eating next month, says the London Daily Mail in an editorial on "The Right to Clean Food." Continuing the paper says:

"That is the disagreeable fact revealed by Dr. Leslie Haden Guest, M. P., who has just investigated the conditions under which fruit and other food are prepared in the Near East. Doctor Guest found that in Smyrna figs, sultanas, and currants are packed on dirty floors, trodden by bare feet coming unwashed from the streets and gutters, and tainted by all the indescribable filth of the East. In theory the consumer is protected by certain safeguards. In practice, the rules are completely disregarded and the medical examination is the merest formality."

Five Years
Mrs. T. G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said in Minneapolis the other day:

"Women are now more careful, even more reluctant, about marrying, because they can now go out in the world and earn splendid salaries. Marriage is, in a financial way, a great sacrifice to some women."

Two women met the other day in a department store. One, a spinster, wore a seal skin coat. The other, a matron, wore a threadbare blue serge. "Why, Mabel!" said the spinster. "How glad I am to see you. And they tell me you're married. How long have you been married, dear?"

"Let me see," said Mabel. "I bought this blue serge five years ago."

Altogether Too Late
A misanthropic young man was railing about the emptiness of life. "The sooner the world ends the better," he said. "We all ought to be annihilated."

"My dear fellow," his friend replied. "The world's packed with interesting things. They're just discovered that human life began on this earth about a million years ago—and you talk of wiping us all out."

"A million years ago?" "The papers are full of it." "Oh, well," said the morbid man, miserably, "it's too late to do anything about it, then."

Prove Safety in Flight
Persons who still are fearful of traveling in airplanes might well examine recently issued statistics of the army air service, says Popular Science Monthly. Between the fall of 1922 and the spring of this year army flyers have covered almost 700,000 miles over the model airway system without a single death. About 700 passengers have been carried and 60,000 pounds of express matter. There have been fifteen crashes in this period, but only one man has been injured.

Y.W.C.A. Doings This Summer

Tennis is to be one of the main outdoor activities that the health education department of the Y. W. C. A. is planning for this summer. The use of the tennis court at the Staples property on Broadway has been very generously given to the Y. W. C. A. girls and anyone who is interested in either playing or learning to play tennis may do so by calling the Y. W. C. A. and signing up for the court or for a lesson.

A picnic for the senior department is being planned for Wednesday evening of next week, to be held at Forsyth Park. All senior members are cordially invited to attend. It is to be a box lunch and a program of stunts and games is being planned to add to the evening's fun.

A girl reserve picnic, as well as a children's swimming party are being arranged for and a further announcement as to both of these affairs will be made soon.

Any senior members who would like instruction in swimming can make arrangements to have a lesson by communicating with the office at the Y. W. C. A.

Lucy Stone League

Lucy Stone was a suffragist who achieved considerable notoriety by declining to change her name upon marriage to the one borne by her husband, in accordance with common custom. A league was founded of women who preferred to retain their maiden names and was named in her honor, the Lucy Stone league.

KEEP RIGID WATCH FOR AUTO THIEVES

Auto owner, did you know that 10,064 automobiles were reported stolen in 1924? This report is authentic, and shows that a more rigid watch should be made for the thieves.

One method of the crooks is to carry their own battery, in case your switch is locked.

WEAR CAUSED BY SEVERE BRAKING

Tests Show Tires, Wheels, Spokes, Gears and Joints Are Affected.

Tires, wheels, spokes, differential gears and universal joints; these are the parts of an automobile which suffer most from sudden and severe brake applications, according to tests just completed.

These tests revealed why it is possible for a car to skid on a perfectly dry pavement. It was found that locked wheels slide along asphalt on a film of soft rubber, melted from the tread of the tire by frictional heat. In such cases, it was found, the car will travel farther before stopping than when the brakes are so adjusted and applied by the operator that they cannot lock the wheels.

Inspect Brakes Often. In the interest of greater safety, car owners should see to it that their brakes are more frequently inspected; certainly no less than once a month, or, better, every 500 miles. A simple road test, moreover, can be made by determining within what distance a car can be stopped at various speeds. When this has been determined, with any particular car, a liberal margin of safety should be added for actual conditions of service.

It should be remembered that the ability to stop a car is greatly influenced by the condition of the road surface. When roads are very wet, as in heavy rainstorms, there is less tendency for a car to skid than when the roads are partially dried or in what is known as a "greasy state." Should a car start to skid when applying the brakes, it is usually due to the wheels locking.

Stop Skidding. A dangerous skidding can usually be quickly stopped if a driver has presence of mind to release the brakes and apply them a second time with less force. This gives the wheels a chance to again grip the road. If the road is very slippery, as on an icy road with light snow on the surface, best results are obtained by slowing the car carefully with the engine and helping with the brake. Lightly loaded cars, as with the driver only, are more difficult to stop than loaded ones.

With these points in mind a driver can quickly learn the "tricks," but, above all, do not have too much confidence in your ability, as "it is better to be safe than sorry."

Care for Spring Clips Is of Much Importance

A point not always observed by the new car owner is that it is necessary to tighten the clips which hold the springs to their seats from time to time. Though the clips are tightened firmly when a new car leaves the factory, the continual working up and down of the spring leaves will cause them to set gradually, thereby somewhat loosening the spring clips. These clips should be drawn up perfectly tight every once in a while.

It is a common error to suppose that when a spring breaks upon a car plunging into a deep hole, the breakage is caused by the shock of the weight of the car coming down on the wheels. As a matter of fact, when a spring gives way under these circumstances, the breakage is usually caused not on the downward movement of the spring, but on the rebound. When the load plunges down, the load is borne by all leaves simultaneously, whereas the force of the rebound is taken by the leaves individually. One after the other, and for that reason must become more emphasized when the spring clips are loosened. Spring breakage occurs more often with loose clips than with properly tightened ones.

After the car has been run for a while and the springs have assumed their permanent set, the spring clips will need tightening only at very long intervals.

Scolding Laugh

A scolding laugh is generally referred to as a scolding laugh from Abdera, a seaport town in Thracia, noted as the birthplace of the cynic Democritus, who is known as the laughing or scolding philosopher.

Watch Universal Joints

Universal joints, due to their location under the floor of the car, are usually neglected and the owner seldom gives them any attention until they begin to give trouble. These joints of the car should not be overlooked. If the joints are of fabric type, see that every bolt is tight, and cotter pins are in place and that the fabric is not worn at any point. If mechanical joints are used, lubricate them thoroughly, and if there is any extra "play" in the joint, drive it to a service station immediately.

fire protection, but also can be used for draining wet land, flooded cellars, pile driving, cleaning out stuffed up water lines, etc. It has a lifting capacity of 24 feet through the 1½ inch suction hose.

Difficult to Estimate Correct Speed of Cars

From the results of experiments conducted by the psychological department of an Iowa university it appears that the average person is prone to overestimate the speed of a small, noisy motor car and underestimate that of a large, smooth-running one, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

About 100 students were recently assembled at a point past which machines of different sizes and conditions were driven at known speeds. As a vehicle passed, each person recorded on paper his personal estimate of its mileage per hour.

Twenty-three trips were made with the cars, and from a study of the subsequent tabulations it was found that when a driver continually scanned his horn in passing the students considered the speed to be about five miles an hour greater than it really was. The discrepancy was double this when the rate of a rattling machine was considered.

Of two cars traveling at equal pace, the smaller was invariably estimated to travel faster than the other. It is rather interesting, too, that young men and women who had never driven a car, made, on the whole, as nearly accurate estimates as did those of greater experience.

Close guesses of actual speeds were made when cars traveled along at ten or twelve miles an hour, but when raced at 50 or 60 miles the guesses were extremely wild.

Mr. Hoover Said

Speaking to the great advertising convention at Houston, the Secretary of Commerce gave these reasons for the success of newspaper advertising:

"The consumer, searching for article or service, turns to the advertising columns of our press to learn just where to go after it, and so avoids the waste motion and loss of time and strength involved in blind search for fulfillment of his desire. All these things eliminate waste motion and time."

The elimination of waste motion in national merchandising reduces selling expense.

Newspaper advertising, judiciously used in good markets, gets distribution and sales at minimum cost.

Newspaper advertising permits the advertiser to tell where his product may be found.

ANTIOCH.

Antioch was the daughter of Cleopatra, king of Thracia, by his sister, Jotana. This incestuous union brought a curse on the innocent Antioch, yet she never failed in her duty to her father, but attended him in his greatest misfortunes.

She was slain by the usurper, Creon, whose son, Haemon, being in love with her, killed himself upon her tomb, then she was avenged in death on Creon, in the loss of his son. Her death was avenged by Creon by Haemon, and her name has been immortalized in a tragedy by Sophocles (Oedipus Rex).

THE SIX OF BOSTON.

The site of Boston was sold to the natives by the Indians on this day in 1631. When Governor John Winthrop and his company, with the King's charter, had arrived at Charlestown on June 18, 1630, they had found the peninsula without human habitation except for the little cottage of the Rev. William Blincoe, a clergyman of the English church. The English settlers first called the peninsula Trimountain, or Tremont, but in September 1639 it was ordered that the name be changed to Boston. The name of Boston was chosen in honor of Isaac Johnson, one of the foremost of Winthrop's company who hailed from the English town of Boston.

BURNING OF ROME.

On June 15, in the year 64 Nero instigated the burning of Rome. It is said, so that he could have "inspiration for his divine music." The conflagration he then attributed to the Christians, which was the cause of the first persecution of the Christians. Incidentally, it may be said that Nero disgraced the throne of the Caesars more than any of his successors and began, by his wastefulness and villainy, the tearing down of the great Empire so wonderfully rebuilt by the great Augustus, who not only put a stop to the petty civil wars and persecutions that were wasting the Roman people but went on, heaving that Varrus had been destroyed to the German forests with 26,000 Legionaries, saying "Varrus, Varrus give me back my legions (Dec. A. D. 9) Augustus also revived the Roman State religion and issued the famous "Lex" forbidding luxurious living or extravagance—both himself and the Empress Livia living frugally and modestly.

INFANT DEATH RATE ANALYZED

Data Furnished by 23,000 in Eight American Cities.

Washington. — Twenty-three thousand babies in eight American cities studied through their first year, or as much of the first year as the infant survived, furnishes the data for a comprehensive analysis of infant mortality in this country, made public by the children's bureau of the United States Department of Labor. The eight cities studied, in each of which bureau investigators working in co-operation with local health authorities visited each mother to whom a baby was born during the year previous to the study, are Johnstown, Pa.; Manchester, N. H.; Brockton, Mass.; Saginaw, Mich.; New Bedford, Mass.; Waterbury, Conn.; Akron, Ohio, and Baltimore, Md. The data obtained from the eight cities is consolidated in this new report, which is the work of Dr. Robert Morse Woodbury, formerly director of statistical research for the children's bureau.

Doctor Woodbury in the summary of the report emphasizes the importance of a thorough knowledge of the causes of infant mortality:

"A thorough knowledge of the causes of infant mortality is the first step toward their complete control. In the light of such knowledge preventive measures may be intelligently planned to produce a maximum of result. These measures may be aimed to prevent the spread of specific infectious diseases—for example, vaccination for smallpox, the Shick test and toxin-antitoxin immunization against diphtheria, disinfection of the eyes to prevent ophthalmia neonatorum, or the practice of surgical cleanliness to prevent tetanus and other infections."

Causal Factors.

Doctor Woodbury's analysis of the causal factors in the infant mortality among the 23,000 babies studied indicates these main facts:

Causes peculiar to early infancy were first in importance and responsibility for nearly one-third of the deaths under one year, the rate from these causes being 86.1 (per 1,000). Gastric and intestinal diseases gave a rate of 32.4; respiratory diseases, 19.0; epidemic and other communicable diseases, 7.1.

The mortality decreased month by month during the first year of life, dropping from 44.8 in the first to 9.3 in the second month, and to 4.6 in the twelfth.

Seasonal conditions influenced the mortality rates. August showed the maximum mortality from gastric and intestinal diseases, January the minimum. From respiratory diseases the maximum mortality occurred in February, the minimum in August. Epidemic and other communicable diseases were slightly prevalent in the late winter and early spring.

Mortality was lowest for infants born in August and highest for those born in June.

Mortality for male babies was about one-fourth higher than for females, a fact amply explainable only by a difference in vitality to the disadvantage of the male sex.

Factors relating to the physical condition of the mother also influenced the mortality rate. It was found, for instance, that infants of mothers who died within a year after confinement had a mortality from all causes over four times the rate for those whose mothers lived. A small group of babies whose mothers were known to have tuberculosis had a very high mortality. High rates were also found among babies whose mothers were reported to have had convulsions.

First-born children had a slightly higher mortality than second-born. Leaving the first-born out of account, the mortality rate tended to increase with the order of birth, although this increase was associated primarily with increasing economic pressure.

Mother's Age and Mortality.

The age of the mother did not have any influence on the mortality rate except in the case of first-born babies, among whom higher rates prevailed when the mother was under twenty or over forty years.

The mortality rate was highest for infants born within a short interval (within approximately one year) after preceding births, and lowest when four-year or longer intervals occurred between births.

Mortality from all causes was much higher among twins and triplets than among other babies.

Mortality among the exclusively artificially fed babies averaged between three and four times that among the exclusively breast-fed. Early artificial feeding was especially harmful. Partially breast-fed babies had a mortality rate higher than the exclusively breast-fed, but lower than the exclusively artificially fed.

Infant mortality rates classified according to the color and nationality of the mothers showed the lowest rates for Jewish babies, and in ascending order, higher rates for native white, German, Italian, colored, Polish, French-Canadian and Portuguese. The range was 30.5 to 200.3.

Flourishing competition, employment of the mother away from the home and low earnings on the part of the father were other very important factors in securing the highest death rate. Irregularity of all other factors, it was discovered that infant death rate varied inversely with the earnings of the father.

Modern Menus Harm Eyesight

Food of Civilization Changes Bony Frame of Eye Cavities, Says Scientist—Dietary Systems Breaking Down.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, June 18.—That the civilized peoples of the world are gradually becoming shortsighted due to deficiencies of modern food is the theory advanced by Sir Arthur Keith England's greatest anatomist and a professor of the Royal College of English Surgeons.

Lecturing before the British Optical Society, he emphatically rejected the idea that short sight is due to eye strain. "Modern civilization," he said, "has placed our bodies under conditions altogether new to them. Our digestive systems are breaking down under our dietary, with the result that our teeth are suffering with disease, our nervous systems are breaking down, and contracted pupils are becoming very common."

"More than this, however," Sir Arthur continued, "is the fact that in a considerable proportion of the population changes in the bony framework of the face are taking place, due to a diminished use of the jaws. With these bony changes the size and shape of the orbits—the cavity in which the eyes are lodged—are involved, with the result that the eyeball becomes distorted."

"Take 1,000 average British children. They are all born with eyes fashioned for 'distant' sight, but by the end of their fourth year, ten or more will have lost the power of seeing clearly at a distance, and by the age of twenty 150 at least of them will have become short-sighted, all because their eyeballs have become elongated by insufficient use of the jaws."

Showing how the theory that short sight is due to eye-strain is all wrong, Sir Arthur demonstrated to his audience that although our forefathers of ancient times had to do all manner of things—such as chipping flints and making bone needles—requiring a continuous use of the eyesight, science shows that they were very rarely short-sighted.

He advised all physicians and op-ththalmists that the real cause of eye strain and short sight must be sought in the factors which all interfere with the growth processes leading to the development of the eye.

Why They Chuckled

Smith had been troubled by his neighbor who, one day, was looking at them over the fence and he inquired, "By the way, Jones, what did you put for those eyes?" "A dollar order," replied Smith. "Ah, that explains it," said Jones. "I wondered what the things had to chuckle about."

Life's Length

a life empty, and it will soon long enough.—The Book.

Milk Producers Hear Financier

3,500 Members of Dairymen's League Listen To Address of Francis H. Sisson In Annual Meeting In New York City.

In an address today at the Hotel Pennsylvania to what was probably the largest gathering of dairy farmers ever assembled in New York city, Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company and well known as a banker and speaker on economic subjects, emphasized the importance of the recent development of producers' cooperative marketing associations in the United States and held out this system of marketing as the great hope of the dairy business of the future.

Mr. Sisson spoke to more than 3,500 delegates and members at the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc. These representatives of the 65,000 dairymen had come from every section of the six milk producing states that make up the New York City milk zone. This organization which is farmer owned and farmer managed and is the largest of its kind in the world is the largest single producer group supplying New York City's tremendous daily milk needs. Starting with a few thousand members in 1920 and with no capital, it has grown to a membership of 65,000 with a capital of approximately $13,000,000 and the annual sales of milk and milk products amounting to $65,000,000. During this period the Association has established a chain of more than 200 milk plants said to be the largest and best equipped string of milk plants in the world. Its membership and financial strength acquired during a comparatively short period is an outstanding record in the annals of cooperative marketing.

Mr. Sisson's Talk.
Mr. Sisson spoke in part as follows:

"Not only because of its present position as one of the more favorable aspects of the agricultural situation, but in view of its growth and development in recent years, the situation in the dairy industry is worthy of attention. Current changes in this branch of production, as well as its longer term aspects, furnish interesting examples of the action of economic influence on the extent and distribution of agricultural activity. The movement toward diversification which has grown out of the series of depressions and readjustments in the markets for agricultural commodities has been reflected in a marked increase in the output of dairy products.

"For obvious reasons the marketing of dairy products has not attained a degree of organization comparable with that of some of the other agricultural staples, and the situation as a whole can not be so clearly pictured as, for example, that of wheat or cotton. For this reason also the relative magnitude of the industry and its economic significance are not generally appreciated.

"An interesting feature in the development of the dairy industry in this country is the growth of the cooperative type of organization. Approximately a quarter of all the cooperative associations which report to the Department of Agriculture are dairy products organizations, including creameries, cheese factories and milk marketing associations.

"It should be mentioned that some of these concerns are not cooperative in the strict sense, being owned in whole or in part by others than the producers themselves. Although the usual difficulties have been encountered in such matters as organization, management and finance, in general they have been successfully met, with the result that dairy associations are numbered among the most successful cooperative units in the country.

Cooperative Principle Not New.

"Neither the cooperative principle in general, nor the organization of farmers for the production of their common interests, is new in America. As long ago as Revolutionary times there were agricultural associations similar in purpose to the farm bureau and granges of today. For three-quarters of a century farmers have been running cooperative stores for the purchase of supplies. The Civil War was followed by a country-wide cooperative movement, which took various forms, including marketing organizations, credit organizations, and mutual insurance companies. The movement, however, consisted chiefly of local associations, which were frequently badly managed, and many of which soon failed or died out. Among those remaining there developed a strong tendency toward federation or consolidation.

"I believe that there is no need of my discussing the successful operation of your own splendid cooperative association—the Dairymen's League. That would be in the nature of carrying coals to Newcastle. But I can assure you that your progress is viewed with sincere satisfaction by all who realize the importance and significance of your effort. They are glad to know that League dairy farmers own and operate more than eight million acres of land; that League farmers own approximately one million head of dairy cattle, worth more than $72,000,000; that League farmers own 216,000 horses valued at $24,000,000, and have large holdings of other live stock and poultry; that the total value of all the crops, including milk, produced annually on League dairy farms is well in excess of $200,000,000 with an average of more than $3,000 per farmer.

"These facts and figures represent capital investment on a large scale with productive capacity which, directly and indirectly, will enrich the entire nation in considerable measure. Your continued success, therefore, is very essential to the whole country.

Situation Supports Price Levels.

"To return to your special interests, at present dairying is one of the most profitable of farming operations and during the last year or two it has furnished an important outlet for agricultural activity diverted from the production of commodities less favorably situated with respect to prices. The dairy industry is dependent chiefly upon the domestic market. Only in canned and powdered milk is there any considerable export trade, but this accounts for a small fraction of the production. The market demand for dairy products will probably be well sustained so long as the industrial population is prosperous. The shift to dairying in the North and West in recent years, as a feature of the diversification movement, is reflected in the increase in the number of milk cows on farms since 1921. Storage stocks of butter, following last summer's prolonged flush production, reached record levels. But these have been greatly reduced. Cheese stocks are not excessive. There was even talk of shortage recently in the canned milk markets. The situation is one which tends to support present price levels.

"In brief, the immediate future for the dairy industry, as for business generally, promises sustained, moderate prosperity."

President Slocum's Address.

In his annual address to members, G. W. Slocum of Milton, Pennsylvania, who has been president of the Dairymen's League since its organization on a cooperative marketing basis said in part:

"This meeting of farmers here in New York, right in the heart of the greatest market in the world, is unique and worthy of notice. Never before has there been a meeting of so large a group of business farmers in this city. Here almost within range of our sight live the millions who consume the vast production of your milk, the most vital part of their daily food.

"The annual consumption of all kinds of food by this vast population last year exceeded ten billion pounds of food stuffs valued at approximately $1,500,000,000. Yours is the big job to keep this city amply supplied at all times with all the milk that it needs.

"Having chosen the dairy industry as our business, we realize its great responsibilities. We deal in fact with life itself because we deal with the one great food commodity that more than any other furthers the public health.

"Milk is a real essential. This is why your Association has set a very high standard in quality and sanitation and has thrown around its operations from cow to consumer, every possible safeguard. There is no sacrifice too great to make in order that the milk supply of this market may be the best that can be produced.

Organization Must Render Service.

"We have always felt that such an organization as ours, to justify its existence, must render a constant service to the producer, to the consumer and to the distributor. We entered this field of work to make it more efficient in the interest of all to preserve and advance all that was economically sound and to eliminate that which was useless and inefficient.

"There is much in common between the men of the country and the men of the city. Yet for years they have been working very far apart and with little knowledge of each other's conditions and problems. There is a mutual dependency and because we want to promote and develop closer and more friendly relations, the directors of this association decided this year to hold our annual meeting right at the heart of our greatest market.

"We want you men while you are here to study the many problems that enter into the distributing of your milk and we want the city consumers and distributors to know more of our problems and to see the type of men that produce their milk supply.

"After these four years of practical operation, I am more firmly convinced that the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association is on the right road to solve the particular problems with which you are concerned. I believe the eventual solving of these problems is vital to all dairymen of New York and adjoining states. The successful carrying out of this great movement is in the hands of the very men who are assembled here today.

Success Lies in Unity.

"Was there ever a more needed effort? In your unity lies your success. You are going back into your communities from here to build up that which is gradually loosening the shackles that have tied you body, soul and mind for generations. You are going to build up a better country in which to live and make possible the kind of homes that will attract the growing generation. To those who are here and those who are left at home, all loyal supporters of the league, I wish to express to you on behalf of your officers, our appreciation for your earnest and generous support."

President Slocum stressed the benefits which have come to the dairymen through organization emphasizing the matter of prices, higher quality of milk, the elimination of uncertain and uneconomic factors in the dairy industry. He pointed out the great need of economy and of sound financial policies if producers hope to achieve success through their cooperative marketing associations and reviewed the progress made by the Dairymen's League along these lines.

Other Speakers.

Others speakers at the convention were Mrs. Ruby Green Smith of Ithaca, N. Y., secretary of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus, Chester Young, of Napanoch, N. Y., treasurer of the association, and J. D. Miller, of Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, vice president of the league and president of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation.

Community singing featured the forenoon and afternoon session under the leadership of "Hal" Eppes, a member from Accord, N. Y. Many of the delegates and members, including their wives, arrived in the city on Wednesday to take advantage of a sight seeing and entertainment program provided for them by the organization. The general offices of the league are at 120 West 42nd street, New York city, and occupy four floors with 325 employees. The association's employees in its plants number nearly 1,000.

Good Manners In Motoring

Automobile owners throughout the country have been interested in the question made by Commissioner John B. Stoeckel, who is in charge of the motor vehicle department for the state of Connecticut, that there should be a code of ethics for motorists.

The thought is so unique and timely that the National Safety Council has sent his observations to its various affiliated branches throughout the country. Commissioner Stoeckel feels that the hour has arrived when something more definite than merely the Golden Rule should be circulated for the edification of motor car drivers.

Practically every profession, industry and trade now has a code of ethics. The secretary of one commercial organization recently counted those industries which had such codes and found there were more than a hundred of them which had been applied during the past year.

Perhaps the writers who have prepared the various books on etiquette find inspiration in Mr. Stoeckel's suggestion. It would not be surprising if some of the motoring clubs or this matter consideration at their meetings. The automobile manufacturers, who are anxious that motorists feel more friendly toward operators, might include a copy of the proposed code with every new machine.

The National Safety Council points out that the driver who is courteous, considerate is the safe driver. It is the thoughtless, careless, selfish driver who gets into trouble with motorists, other operators and the police.

There is no doubt but what better manners in motoring are needed. All who dislike the mud splashes, horn blasters, road hogs, headlight offenders, obstructionists, speed fiends and drivers who detract from the safety and comfort of highway travel.

IMPORTANT FACTORS WITH RASPBERRIES

In planting a berry patch make every possible provision for a perfect stand. Bad stands are a serious factor in berry growing because when plants are widely separated and irregular in growth, it requires more labor to keep the plants clean and the crop will not pay for the labor. The causes that contribute toward a poor stand usually produce slow growth and it takes so much longer to get a full crop that the patch is usually abandoned.

The two big factors in poor stands are late planting and cellar-stored plants. Successful raspberry growing means that plants must be established before warm weather. To attain this end the ground should be plowed as late as possible to escape early rains that pack the soil. If the soil does not work up well it should be plowed in the spring and well worked before planting. Plants should be on hand as soon as the ground is dry enough to plant. No matter how good the grower nor where grown, there is always a chance that plants will carry some kind of a pest, so it is advisable to dip the stems in lime sulphur solution while dormant. The solution should be one part lime sulphur, nine parts water; and after dipping should be allowed to drain with the roots up, cases down so the solution will not drain down on the roots. Furrows four inches deep and six or seven feet apart make planting easier than digging with a hoe or shovel. If patches are on a north slope the rows should run at right angles to the slope to prevent washing.

Many people have an idea that the ground can never be too wet to set plants. If land is very sandy that may be true, but if the soil is heavy the ground is likely to get so hard that the new shoots cannot break through the crust. If you take soil in your hand and squeeze it and it forms a ball-like dough it is altogether too wet to plant. To pack wet soil makes it into a hard clod with most of the air excluded with the result that "nitritification" will be slow and the plant fail to grow. If it is necessary to plant in wet soil that packs, put very little dirt on the roots of the plant and hoe as soon as the ground is dry enough so that the roots of the plant will be provided with fine soil.

Young Fruit Trees Need Most Careful Attention

Whether few fruit trees or many of them are set this spring the planter should be vigilant to see that they get a good start. It is not necessary to look at young trees every day, but to wait until fall or even next spring is to neglect an opportunity to save many a one from injury. At an early time they should be examined frequently to see that pests are not destroying the foliage. New leaves are being put out and they should be kept covered with sprays if injury is being done. If one-year-old trees have been planted many more buds will be putting out shoots than is desired. These should be carefully removed so that the energy of the tree is directed into the four and five scaffold branches that are to remain permanently. The base of the tree in particular should be kept free of new shoots or sprouts.

Excessive Wood Growth Checks Vigor of Grapes

In a consideration of grape pruning it is well to remember that fruit is borne in a few clusters near the base of the current season's growth; that these fruit-bearing shoots arise largely from wood of last season's growth; that excessive amounts of wood check the vigor of the vine; that only a certain amount of good fruit can be produced in a season from a single vine.

These points will make it very evident that fruit-bearing wood must be renewed every year from the desirable one-year-old canes, and that all canes over a year old not necessary to support one-year-old growth, or form a framework, should be removed. Also, a large proportion of new wood must be removed by thinning out.

Splitting Bark on Fruit Trees in Cold Weather

Bark will sometimes split on fruit trees following cold weather in late winter and early spring. Where there is just a tree or two, wrap the tree with moist burlap, but where there are a large number of trees, showing considerable bark cracking, it is well to tack the bark to the body of the tree with large-headed tacks, such as half-board tacks. This will keep the bark from rolling back and drying.

Campaign Against Mice in Washington Orchards

One of the most extensive campaigns against mice in orchards that has yet been organized by the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture was carried on during November in five counties in the state of Washington—Chelan, Okanogan, Douglas and Yakima. More than 42,000 pounds of poisoned grain were distributed by workers co-operatively directed by the state and federal rodent control forces.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

Tributes Genius Has Paid to Human Voice

Shakespeare says:
"Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low; an excellent thing in woman."
Charles Lamb says:
"How often you are drawn irresistibly to a plain, unassuming woman, whose soft, silvery tones render her positively attractive! In the social circle, how pleasant it is to hear a woman talk in that low key which always characterizes the true lady. In the sanctuary of home, how such a voice soothes the fretful child and cheers the weary husband!"
Longfellow says:
"How wonderful is the human voice! It is indeed the organ of the soul. The intellect of man sits enthroned visibly upon his forehead and in his eye; and the heart of man is written upon his countenance. But the soul reveals itself in the voice only, as God revealed Himself to the prophet of old, in 'the still, small voice,' and in a voice from the burning bush. The soul of man is audible not visible. A sound alone betrays the flowing of the eternal fountain, invisible to man!"

Famous French Palace

The Louvre is a famous palace in Paris originally the residence of French kings, but since the French revolution used as a museum of art and antiquities. The Louvre derives its name from an ancient hunting chateau that stood on the site of the present palace, in the midst of a forest infested with wolves and known as the Louverrie. It is said to have been a royal residence in the time of Dagobert (628). The foundation of the present building was laid by Francis I in 1546, and the structure was enlarged and adorned by successive kings, particularly Henry IV and Louis XIV, the latter being the last king to live in it. The work of building the Louvre and the Tuileries in one structure was completed in 1887; and the combined Louvre and Tuileries covers an area of 46 acres—Kansas City Times.

What Seemed Numerous

Mother was entertaining a caller, when suddenly Dorothy, who had been playing on the floor, yawned prodigiously. "My, what a big yawn for such a little girl!" exclaimed the caller. "Yes," agreed Dorothy, "and the funny part is that I wasn't yawning at all to what you were saying!"

Kiwanis Tribute To Judge Fowler

At the noon day meeting of the Kiwanis Club, high tribute was paid to Kiwanian Judge Joseph M. Fowler, who was recently awarded a degree of Bachelor of Arts by Rutgers College. Dr. Holcomb presided as toastmaster and introduced the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley, who paid a glowing tribute to Judge Fowler and said it was an honor to Kiwanis to have a man of his attainments as a member. Judge Fowler was a splendid citizen, always interested in things worth-while for the upbuilding of the community. Former County Judge Jenkins was then introduced and also paid a high tribute to the sterling worth of Judge Fowler and spoke of his work in the office of county judge.

MORGAN'S WIFE HAS SLEEPING SICKNESS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—The illness of Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, wife of the well known banker, has been diagnosed as sleeping sickness in a serious form, it was announced today. She is ill at the Morgan country home on Long Island. Her condition late this morning was improved over last night.
Since she became ill last Sunday eight specialists have been called to attend her.
Mrs. Morgan has been in a nervous condition. Some time ago her daughter's child was ill and she fretted considerably over the child's condition. The child since has fully recovered.
Mr. Morgan is at his wife's bedside. He was cruising aboard the yacht Corsair on Long Island Sound when notified of his wife's condition. Mrs. Morgan was to have joined her husband aboard the yacht this week.
Before her marriage, Mrs. Morgan was Miss Jane Grew of Boston.
The Morgans were married in 1890. They have four children. Mrs. Morgan is about 55 years old.

Blood Transfusion Operation.
Glen Cove, N. Y., June 18.—Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan underwent a blood transfusion operation last night. It was learned today.
Donors of the blood were brought from New York by one of the surgeons. Three nurses assisted the surgeons.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY SCORED AGAINST SHEPHERD

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Ill., June 18.—"I had some tubes of bacteria. Shepherd asked me if he could have them and I told him he could. He asked me if I knew of any instance of bacteria being used for criminal purposes."
William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClellan, sat in the criminal court today and heard, in these words, what the prosecution believes to be the most damaging testimony scored against him.
Dr. Charles C. Falman, head of the National University of Sciences, star of the prosecution, was on the stand, called as a court witness.

Great Britain Victorious.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Eastbourne, England, June 18.—Great Britain captured the Anglo-American law tennis series today by 2 matches to 2 when J. B. Gilbert of England, defeated Ray Casey, of San Francisco, in the deciding singles match, 3 to 1, 9 to 7 and 6 to 2. John McHenry, of Indianapolis, previously had squared the series by disposing of Pat Wheatley, of England in a four set match.

Shaft Would Have Value

It is strange that an expedition into the earth's interior has never been seriously attempted. If we could sink a shaft only twelve miles into the ground we might strike all the coal and oil that would be needed in millions of years. In all likelihood we should find radium, gold, silver, diamonds, and other gems of untold wealth, as well as wonderful new metals and fresh sources of energy.—Exchange.

Storm-Wrecked Train Kills 31

Search for bodies in the tangled wreckage increased the toll of dead for hours after a special excursion train from Chicago to New York on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad was wrecked near Hackensack, N. J. A terrific wind and rain storm clogged a switch with gravel, derailed the train. The passengers were Germans, expecting to sail on the liner Republic for Germany.

Hears Amundsen Party Is Safe

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—Unofficial word that Roald Amundsen, the explorer, and party, missing since May 21 when he started for the North Pole, are safe was received this afternoon by Bernon Prantice, brother-in-law of Lincoln C. Ellsworth, Amundsen's chief aid.
Prantice said his advice had come from a news agency that had been instrumental in promoting the Arctic expedition. Amundsen is chairman of the American Auxiliary Committee that functioned to provide counsel and finance for the Amundsen-Ellsworth venture.

Safe at King's Bay.
London, June 18.—Captain Roald Amundsen and his party of polar explorers, including Lieutenant Lincoln Ellsworth, an Ohio aviator, are safe at King's Bay, according to a Central News dispatch received here this afternoon.

Foreign Currency Takes New Drop

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—French, Italian and Belgian currencies dropped to new low levels here today.
The French franc declined to 4.69 cents to the franc, Italian lira to 3.60 cents and Belgian francs to 4.68 cents.
Heavy selling was responsible. Most of it originated in European markets.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 18.—Price changes in the bulk of industrial and railroad stocks were narrow and unimportant today, the volume of trading was small and the market was almost entirely in control of the professionals.

The continuation of the advance in Pierce Arrow's three stocks was the outstanding feature. The stock opened fractionally lower and advanced a point or more to 30 1/2. In the fourth hour, heavy buying developed and the common spurred to 34 1/2, while the prior preferred reached 15 1/2, a gain of 21 points over Wednesday's low. The preferred gained 3 points and sold up to 86, against 43 earlier in the year.

The bears launched an attack against the high priced industrial leaders and succeeded in driving prices down from 1 to 5 points on the tape, but trading tapered off to small proportions. American Can, United States Steel, Cast Iron Pipe and General Electric sold a point or two lower.

The railroad stocks were inactive and most of the prominent stocks sold fractionally lower. Copper, equipment, sugar and tobacco stocks did not proceed very far with the rally started yesterday. Hupp, Packard, Hudson and Moon entered the active motor list and moved upward a point or two.

Cotton markets were strong, with nearby contracts moving upward about $2.50 a bale. The grain markets were unsettled and foreign exchange irregular. Call rates were unchanged.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the
New York State Farm Bureau
Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Millman Appointed General Manager of Fruit Growers

The appointment of T. E. Millman of New York city as general manager of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association, Inc., was announced recently in Rochester at association headquarters. Mr. Millman has resigned as manager of the membership service department of the Dairywomen's League Co-operative association to take the new position. Since the resignation of N. R. Peet as general manager several months ago President Hall has been acting as general manager.

In announcing the appointment officers of the association expressed the strongest confidence in Mr. Millman's abilities. His experience and qualifications, they said, will be a big asset to the organization in successfully developing the co-operative packing and sale of fruit in Western New York.

Mr. Millman was born and raised on a fruit farm. At Cornell he specialized in fruit growing, and after graduation managed a fruit farm on Long Island for two years. He then became farm bureau agent of Orange county and three years later was made assistant county agent leader at Ithaca. In 1919 he became manager of the membership service department of the league and has held that position since.

In a statement on the appointment officers of the growers' association said, "In securing Mr. Millman the Western New York Fruit Growers acquire a man of demonstrated organizational ability, skilled in efficient and economical operation of a co-operative association, and of proved administrative experience. Mr. Millman has handled his department in the league with conspicuous success, effecting large economies. We are very glad to announce his appointment as general manager of the Western New York Fruit Growers' association."

Fruit Growers Meet at Hilton

Fruit growers of the western counties of New York met in Hilton this week for the annual meeting of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association, Inc.

The program includes a business session in the morning, with reports by President W. J. Hall of Lockport, C. S. Wilson of Hall, secretary, and W. A. Carr of Albion, treasurer. The election of directors for the coming year follows.

According to association officers, considerable time is devoted to discussion of the report on the association recently made to the directors by experts from the U. S. department of agriculture who have been making a thorough investigation of the association.

Speakers include E. R. Eastman, editor of the American Agriculturist, whose subject is "A Commonsense View of Co-operation," and R. C. Shreve, a fruit dealer who has been asked to tell the members where their fruit meets or falls short of the needs and requirements of the trade.

Radio Speaker Tells About Weather

Forecasting for Farmers

How Uncle Sam forecasts the weather for New York farmers will be interestingly explained from Station W. G. Y. Schenectady on June 23 about 7:15 p. m. The speaker will be Wilford M. Wilson, professor of meteorology at the New York State college of agriculture and meteorology of the U. S. weather bureau at Ithaca. Mr. Wilson has been forecasting weather conditions for nearly forty years and has an interesting story of what is back of the laconic weather forecasts at the top of the morning paper. Relayed by radio to the forecast districts, the weather forecasts were used regularly last year by 1507 farmers in this state.

New York Furnishes Most of Penn- sylvania With Cabbage

New York shipped as much cabbage into fifteen large Pennsylvania markets during 1924 as was raised in the entire Keystone state, according to the bureau of markets. New York sent 1,874 carloads of late cabbage to Pennsylvania cities. Only 132 carloads of late cabbage arrived in the cities of the state from Pennsylvania shipping points.

Ulster's Picnic Will Be a Whale

When "Pa" Starts to Capture the Ice Cream Eating Prize—Everybody Else Will Begin to Capture Something.

There is to be a big county-wide holiday and celebration in Kingston August 20—all day long or longer, a dashing, smashing, tugging, cavorting, frolicking, happy holiday at the Farm and Home Bureau-Chamber of Commerce annual picnic.

The "dashing" by the boys and girls in foot races, "smashing" by "pa" capturing the ice cream eating prize, the "tugging" when the farmers hang it all over the city birds in the tug of war, "cavorting" while the "frolicking" and "happiness" will be the general state of mind of all concerned.

All of this big dust blew up when H. M. Eppes of Accord, the greatest of entertainers, put his shoulder to the wheel and said: "Let's have a whale of a picnic for Old Ulster county this summer." So a "whale" of a picnic it is bound to be. "Hal" Eppes has some shoulder when it's back of the wheels of a good time. As chairman of this year's picnic he means to make those wheels whizz. And as assistants in keeping them whizzing "Hal" has some able "mechanics."

Mrs. W. A. Warren of Hurley, handy in turning out good things to eat, declares that the wheels of the ice cream freezer, the lemon squeezer and the "hot" dog cart will be oiled and operating in high gear.

Sam Bernstein, Jr., he of intricate knowledge of all things entertaining, for the young, the old, the shy and the bold, lifts his eyes out into the county and says: "They shall be entertained," and thus it is that you will be entertained.

C. E. Wonderly! Wonder ye what this master of the art of athletics may have in store; this is where the boys and girls will dash, the men will tug and some good team may lose a baseball game.

Joe Deyo, manager of the greatest horseshoe pitching team in this county, will have to do with "whizzing wheels" nor the modern game of pitching automobile tires—its Horseshoes for Joe. Wintering at a Florida Training Camp for horseshoe shooters Joe claims he is now set for all comers; Even Mariboro! Bring on your teams!

E. W. Hathaway (references, 1922-1923-1924 Picnic Committee Chairman) no introduction necessary, past performances alone sufficient for positive identification, in charge of concessions and band—"They Shall Play."

R. J. Harder, "I vow the wheels shall whizz!" Trucking and moving in charge of R. J. Harder.

C. C. Du Mond, "They Shall Not Fail!" Chairman of tents, tables and seats committee.

Louis Stock, "They Shall Not Pass!" Chairman of parking and policing committee.

W. A. Warren, "It's The Whole Crowd Who Pay!" Cashiering committee chairman.

And folks, that's not all—each sub-chairman will nab up a gang of "Mechanics" with shoulders broad and tough to give him a push. It just means a grand and gloriously successful picnic day for the Ulster county people. Talk it up, boost it up, shut up shop and come to the Annual Farm and Home Bureau Kingston Chamber of Commerce Picnic on August twentieth at Forsyth Park, Kingston.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

August Schultz died at his home at Cottekill today. Funeral services will be held at the Fresh Pond Crematorium, Middle Village, Long Island, on Saturday, at 2:30 p. m.

George A. Rogers, who was born at Springtown, Ulster county, died Wednesday, June 17, at Whitestone, Queens, N. Y., aged 67 years. He was a builder and contractor. His wife, two daughters and a son survive.

Miss Kate Parsells died Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mayhan on Washington avenue, Saugerties, where she had been employed. Miss Parsells had been very ill for several days with the grip and heart complications, and unable to resist the progress of the disease, passed away. She was a woman much respected and had many friends. One sister, Mrs. Stevens, of Jane street, Saugerties, survives her.

Miss Kathryn Lyons died Wednesday at the family residence, No. 995 Sixth avenue, New York city. She is survived by two sisters, Mary and Ellen. The funeral will be held Friday morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral and the interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city, on the arrival of the 2:10 o'clock West Shore train Friday afternoon. Miss Lyons was also a sister of the late Mrs. Rose Cloonan of this city.

Mrs. Lawrence Spangenberg of 46 Adams street died this morning following a long illness. She was born in New York city and came to this city many years ago, where she had made a host of friends by her genial disposition and kindness to all when in need. She leaves besides her husband three sons, Lawrence and Frederick of this city and Harry of New York city, also three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh, Mrs. James McIntyre and Mrs. James Purvis, all of this city. The funeral will be held from her late home, 46 Adams street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The interment will be in the family plot in Montrose Cemetery.

The funeral of Joseph Rafferty was held this morning from the funeral parlors at 140 Broadway at 9:45 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. John F. Duffy, as celebrant, the Rev. Joseph B. Scully as deacon and the Rev. Thomas Daley as sub-deacon. The chancel choir of St. Mary's sang the responses under the direction of Professor William H. Rieser. During the offertory Herman LaTour sang Gounod's Ave Maria, Jacob H. Mollett, violinist, playing the oblige. At the conclusion of the Mass Mr. LaTour rendered, "Face to Face."

U. S. NOT INTERESTED IN EUROPEAN PACI.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 18.—The United States will have nothing to do with the European security pact, it was reiterated in high administrative circles today in connection with news from abroad that France and Germany were desirous of getting this government to become a party to the agreement.

President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg look upon the pact as purely a European problem, with which the United States is not concerned.
